NEW YORK JOURNAL AND ADVERTISER.

AN AMERICAN PAPER FOR THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

TRUSTS AND TWADDLE.

On June 25 the Journal said editorially:

Combination and organization are necessary steps in industrial progress. We are advancing toward a complete organization, in which the Government will stand at the head and be the trust of trusts. It is ridiculous to attempt to stop this development. It is necessary merely to restrict it within proper lines and prevent the power of the trusts from being used to raise prices or lower wages, or otherwise oppress the people. The Journal advocates legislation against criminal trusts and not against all industrial combinations; the relief of the people from the exactions of oppressive trusts by opening our markets to foreign competition, and the ultimate absorption by the Government of those trusts controlling public necessities. * * * The trust is a labor-saving device that can lower the cost of production. The trust is also a great power, which can raise the price of its commodities, rob its weaker rivals, corrupt Legislatures and oppress the public. These evil deeds of the trusts should be made criminal and adequately punished in some such way as by the imprisonment of officials or confiscation of trust property. The trusts should be regulated and restricted by the social organization, but they should not be destroyed, and, what is more, they cannot be.

There seems to be a gradual approximation on the part of public men of all shades of temperament and political belief toward the Journal's view of the nature of trusts and the proper attitude of the people and the Government toward them, but there is a wide difference of opinion concerning the precise remedies that should be adopted for their admitted evils. This is well illustrated in the speeches of W. J. Bryan and Bourke Cockran before the Chicago Conference on Saturday.

Mr. Cockran believes that most of the evils that attach to the trust system can be eliminated by public- this basic principle in government can be overity-by compelling the trusts to carry on all their transactions in the light of day and allowing every stockholder free access to their books. That is a truly Arcadian idea. It proposes to render a ravening tiger lightly be ignored in governing the people in any harmless by tickling him in the ribs. It is equivalent to saying that Chicago would have stopped burning if it had been generally known that there was a fire.

The misdeeds of the trusts are notorious-no degree of legalized publicity could make them more so. an existence can cope successfully with incorpo-It will take something more forcible than that to compel their suppression.

Mr. Bryan's remedies deserve to be taken more seriously than Mr. Cockran's, but they are far from issues in the campaign of 1900. The coinage question, the tariff question and the question of limsatisfactory. The stock-watering idea is worthy to be framed along with Mr. Cockran's publicity scheme. "ROUTIN' TH' INIMIES OF RAYFORM." Watered stock is simply a market convenience or a means of evading limitations of dividend rates. The Standard Oil Trust finds its $100 certificates worth between $400 and $500 each, and Chemical Bank stock (CW Fill, Jawn," says Mr. Dooley. "Th' ray off th' body political," he says. NATIONAL COMMITTEEMEN ON THE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

Many of the Members of the Democratic Committee Agree with Chairman Jones About the Issues for 1900.

HAIRMAN JAMES K. JONES, of the Democratic National Committee, who has been abroad for a number of months for his head has not lost interest in politics. In a recent interview he expressed him off as confident that the Democracy would present a streticket and an equally strong platform for the Presidential battle next plar. In his opinion the principal issues will be "anti-imp rialism, free silver, opposition to trusts, tariff reduction." The Journal has asked his fellow members of the Democratic National Commis tee for their views on the platform, and the following answers have been received:
